

CONFESSIONS FOR THE SEASON.

In the name of Jesus, I declare I am of Zion the city of the living God.

The Lord is my shepherd in this city.

I have an inheritance of abundance and satisfaction.

I refuse to be moved by the difficulties, financial and economic challenges in the nation.

I refuse to be a victim of economic downturn and depression.

There is a river of God that flows through Zion.

I am a partaker of the abundance thereof.

There is a ceaseless flow of abundance and I am flourishing in this land.

The Lord redeems me from death, reduction, termination, despair and economic catastrophe in the time of famine (Job 5:20).

I laugh at destruction and famine and I am not afraid of the beasts of the field where I operate (Job 5:22)

I am not afraid of oppressors and decisions made by men that affect me for Jehovah is at my right hand.

All things are working together for my good.

I emerge a victor, a better person, financially and economically stronger.

I have divine insight and opportunities to be more productive and rise up as a problem solver.

The works of my hands are blessed for the Abrahamic blessing is mine.

The Lord is making room for me in this land and beyond and I am fruitful.

The wisdom of God for increase is at work in me and for me.

I am never in lack of resources and seeds to bring increase.

I am wise in the use of my God-given resources to thrive in this time of famine.

I am kept alive in the time of famine according to God's word (Psalm 33:19)

I shall not be afraid in this evil time and I am satisfied by God in these days of famine (Psalm 37:19)

I am walking in the consciousness of the riches of God's glory and not that of the economic news and numbers.

Jehovah is my source of total supply.

I go out with joy and I am led forth with peace (Isaiah 55:12)

There is room for me

There is room for me

There is room for me

Halleluyah.
